TWO OFFICERS AND THREE SEAMEN ARE TOLL OF COLLISION

Probe Canal Zone Tragedy; Barge Sinks Gig.

BALEBOA, C. Z., Jan. 21.— Naval and Canal Zone authorities began an investigation today into the ramming of a United States navy gig by a barge in the harbor, in which two officers and three enlisted men were drowned.

All of those drowned were from the destroyer tender Whitney and were members of a shore party of ten returning to the ship.

The bodies of the two officers,
Capt. Ralph M. Griswold, of Washington, D. C., and Chief Pay Clerk
Arthur S. Wrenn, Ball River, Mass.,

the harbor until late last night seeking the bodies of the three sailors, without success.

Capt. Griswold was commander of Destroyer Squadron 9, with the Whitney as his flagship.

The other five men in the gig were rescued by the canal tug Mariner which was towing a dredging scow when the collision occurred.

The three enlisted men drowned

berg, Jr., of West Orange, N. J.;

SEEK "HOOK NOSED" KIDNAPER BUT GIRL IS GIVEN FREEDOM

Police Lack Motive In Odd Child Stealing
Case

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 21.—
Search for a "hook-nosed" man who kidnapped Viola Jansky, 5, Saturday night, kept her all night and returned her to her own neighborhood unharmed Sunday, was underway today.

Police are at a loss to determine the motive for the kidnapping. The girl said the man took her for an automobile ride, bought her candy and put her to bed late at night.
He treated her kindly all the time,
her story indicated.

Viola was in a moving picture show near her home Saturday night when her brother Robert, 7, when the man came in and sat down beside her.

He talked to her, and when she expressed a desire for a drink, he offered to take her to the lobby to get one, Robert told police.

When his sister failed to return, the boy told the theater manager and police were notified. Robert said the man was tall, and had a "hooked nose."

Early Sunday Edward Walsh, a neighbor, who had been aiding in the search for the missing girl, saw her on the street near his house and took her home.

The Oser's were shot to death
Jan. 5 and Kaltenbaugh later was captured hiding in his home at Grove City. Officers here said he made a complete confession, declaring he "wanted the Oser's new car."

Kaltenbaugh was represented in court by Attorneys John Gorsuch and Carl Klein who intimated his defense will be insanity. Feb. 18 was set as the boy's trial date.

ican business world has come to

REPORT DR. LITTLE TO LEAVE MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY POST

Newspaper Claims
Prexy Considered
"Iconoclast"

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 21.—
Resignation of Dr. Clarence Cook Little, president of the University of Michigan, will be tendered to the board of regents tonight, it was reported here today.

The Washtenaw Tribune, an Ann Arbor weekly, said it had learned
"on reliable authority" that Dr.
Little would resign, and that his resignation would be accepted.

The newspaper said Dr. Little's views were considered "iconoclastic" and declared he had not furnished the leadership the board had expected.

Members of the board admitted they had heard of the resignation report but denied they had direct knowledge it was true.

Since Dr. Little became University of Michigan's sixth president in 1925, coming from Colby College, Maine, he has been the central
over the university.

He was outspoken in his views on several questions of controversial nature, attracting much attention by his position as president of the Birth Control League and an attack upon the alleged "black list" of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

He clashed with the students some time before the football season when he demanded they "invite" federal prohibition agents in to investigate reports of wholesale liquor drinking on the campus.

When the student control committee refused to do this, he took his views to the heads of fraternities.
His most recent clash came shortly before Christmas, after two students had been burned painfull-ly in a fraternity initiation. Reports said liquor had been exacted from the Neophytes as part of their "pledge," and that the injuries were inflicted by persons who had inhabited too freely.

Instead of letting the matter take the routine course through the campus "courts," Dr. Little appeared personally as prosecutor.
However, the real reason behind the reported resignation is reported to be differences of opinion regarding large donations to the university.

Dr. Little has denied that he has received an offer of another post stating that the last offer he received came two years ago and was rejected.

TWO KILLED, SEVENTY HURT IN HOTEL BLAZE

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 21.—
Two persons were killed and seventy were injured in a fire that destroyed the National Hotel here today.

Scores of guests escaped by ladders from the blazing five-story building. Firemen found the body of an unidentified man and that of a man registered as John J. Jones, Williston, N. D.

Among the more seriously injured were Olaf N. Lundberg 58, a Chicago salesman, and Fred Krowl, address unknown.
Owners of the building made no estimate of the loss.
Cause was undetermined.

The party was made up of three brothers and a friend—Elliot and Randolph Huggins, of Wilmington, and Fred Ingler and Jessie Huggins of New York.

When they left the brothers easily assured their mother they would not get lost. When night came and the boys did not return concern was felt for their safety.
Rescue parties were organized and a search begun. More than 200 men were enlisted.

Members of the crew of the United States Coast Guard Cutter
Mado joined forces with the land

Kidnaped Cashier Fails To Identify Suspect

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 21.—John Kinnard, 27, former Dayton pugilist held here in connection with the kidnapping of Benjamin Henderson, cashier of the Camargo Bank, at Maderia, will be released, police intimated today.

Henderson, it was understood, has failed to identify the man.
The cashier was kidnaped Friday morning, as he left his daughter, Betty Jane, 10, at school in Oakley, another suburb.

Detectives said Kinnard admitted riding with a man suspected of being the leader in the abduction.
Henderson was taken to West Carrollton, near Dayton, where he was released.

Either robbery or revenge was the motive for the kidnapping, Henderson believes.

ciety man, top, who was shot following a gun battle with police in which Inspector John Blackburn, to have shot the two men as they entered his home, after a call from Gribble's physician, to return him to a New York sanitarium, where he had been treated for shell-shock sustained in the World War. Other patrolmen shot Gribble in trying to subdue him. His condition is

DEAN PHILLIP NASH RESIGNS POSITION AT ANTIOCH COLLEGE

Will Be Director Of League Of Nations Association

Phillip C. Nash, dean of Antioch College since its reorganization eight years ago has resigned his position to become director of the League of Nations Association, he announced Saturday.

The resignation will become effective June 30, the close of the present academic year. Mr. Nash, who was appointed director of the association last December, expects to move to New York City, where headquarters of the association are located.

Plans for a re-organization are under way and definite action on the appointment of a successor to Dean Nash is expected to be taken shortly, it is said.

Mr. Nash became identified with the college in 1921 after being discharged from the engineering corps in the army. For one year he was head of the civil engineering department at Northeastern University at Boston and served in a similar capacity at Antioch.

In taking up his new duties as director of the League of Nations Association, Mr. Nash succeeds Charles C. Bauer, formerly of Springfield. Upon his resignation,
Mr. Bauer becomes vice-president of the council of the organization.

The association, since its organization in 1919, has carried on a vigorous educational campaign to strengthen the League of Nations and promote harmonious international relations. The association has promoted many of the World Court bills that have been proposed in congress and has also fostered a strong movement to arouse sentiment for membership in the league.

DODGE SUED AS FIGHT SEQUEL

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 21.—A first fight between Horace Dodge, Detroit millionaire, and a hotel doorman, is the basis of a $25,000 damage suit against Dodge here.

The suit was filed by Harry Hastan, 36, doorman of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, who was discharged for "incivility to a guest" after an altercation with Dodge, last week.

The encounter occurred at the hotel entrance when Dodge and the doorman began an argument over parking. Dodge had driven to the entrance with his wife and John Kackenzie, of the income tax department here.

Witnesses said the doorman and Dodge grappled and rolled around in the hotel garden. Hastan, it was said, required hospital treatment.

REMOVED TO SAFETY WHEN DOLLAR LINER GROUNDS ON SHOALS

Navy Vessels Rush Help;
Radio Call Brings
Rescue

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.— Eighty-three passengers of the grounded Dollar liner President Garfield were prepared early today to be landed at Nassau by the Munson liner Pan America, which took them from the sea in lifeboats.

The 151 members of the crew, mostly Chinese, waited aboard the President Garfield for the arrival of five naval vessels rushing to the aid of the disabled steamer.

The President Garfield, lying in the Little Bahama shoals, seventy-five miles east of Port Pierce on the Florida Coast, was reported to be in no danger. The vessel was not taking water and it was unnecessary to man the pumps, according to word last received by radio.

Last Thursday the President Garfield put out from this port with a passenger list of eighty-three bound on a cruise around the world.
Havana was to have been the first port of call. At 7:25 a. m. yesterday a distress message was sent out which attracted several vessels.

The Pan America, being closest, was permitted to effect the rescue.
According to word received here,
the President Garfield had run by a slight buoy marking the shoals and when Capt. T. P. Quinn realized this he attempted to turn retrace the course but was firmly grounded fore and aft.

Capt. Rose of the Pan America, rushing under forced draught to the stranded steamer, advised Capt.
Quinn to put passengers and their baggage in life boats to be transferred to the Pan America.

NOVELIST'S DEATH IS MYSTERY

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—An autopsy today is expected to determine the cause of the death of Leonard Clive, novelist, poet, play-right and former newspaper man, who was found dead yesterday in bed in his Greenwich Village apartment. He had been dead four days, according to Dr. Raymond B. Miles, assistant medical examiner.

Cline had been released July 15 from Connecticut state prison after serving ten months of a year's sentence, with time off for good behavior, for manslaughter, for the killing of his life-long friend, Wilfred Irwin, a New York advertising man.

But the last seen of Cline alive was on Wednesday following a party which he had given in his apartment to celebrate the receipt of a $400 check for a scenario, which was to aid in the completion of the payment of a mortgage on his farm.

Three novels by Cline received favorable comment from the critics: "Godhead," "Listen, Moon," and "Dark Chamber," the last written in his cell.

Cline was 38 years old. His wife is living with her parents in Detroit.

RIP DEAD BUT MEMORY LINGERS

Famed Horned Toad Succumbed To Chill Air;
Disposition Of Body Is Puzzle

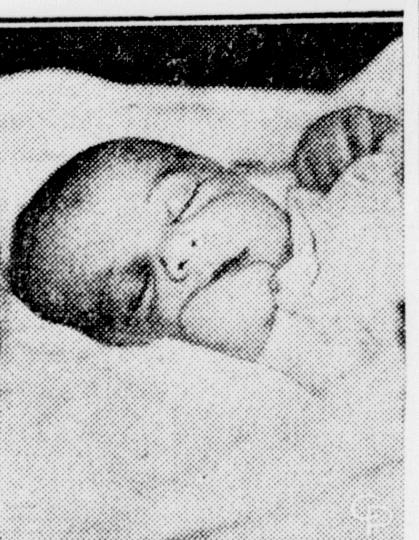

EASTLAND, Tex., Jan. 21.—
The question of what to do with Old Rip, Eastland's hormed toad, now that he is dead, is causing as much controversy as the question a year ago, "how did Old Rip die?"

Lured by a ray of sunshine from his protective glass covering Saturday Old Rip exposed himself to chilling January draughts and died.

Scores of suggestions as to the disposition of the famous reptilian body have come to Will M. Wood, custodian.

It had been decided that the splotchy creature should rest in state in a glass covered canopy in Eastland's new $300,000 cathedral that stands over the site of the cornerstone where Old Rip died for thirty-one years.

BABY LIVES

Born as his mother died from gunshot wounds inflicted by an enraged father-in-law, the infant son of Mrs. Frank Giannamore, of Seubenville, O., has gained weight. The mother died before an operation had been completed and oxygen was used to save the baby's life. Mrs. Giannamore and her mother-in-law both died in the hospital from wounds inflicted by the latter's husband, Vincenza Giannamore, 63, who then took his own life, following a quarrel.

PAUL JAWARSKI IS ELECTROCUTED FOR MURDER IN HOLD UP

Dies With Sneer On Lips;
Refuses Spiritual
Aid

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., Jan. 21.—The state of Pennsylvania electrocuted today its most notorious criminal—Paul Jawarski.

Aroused from sleep at 5:30 a. m.
by prison officials and served with breakfast, Jawarski was taken to the death chamber at 7 a. m., and a few minutes later his criminal career was ended in the electric chair.

This 32-year-old leader of payroll bandits and murderer, who boasted that he had killed at least two dozen men, died as he had lived, with a sneer on his lips for the laws of both God and man.

He refused to give permission for a minister to render religious consolation to him at life's end.
He refused to seem concerned over the fate of the laws of the state had decreed for him.

He walked twenty-five feet from his death cell to the electric chair between two prison guards and met with an air of indifference, the death for which he said "I am ready."

"It would be against my belief as I have preached atheism all my life," Jawarski told prison authorities when they insisted that he have the attention of the prison chaplain.

With his hair clipped and attired in a prison shirt and a pair of blue trousers with the left leg slit to the knee, Jawarski was led into the death chamber and strapped into the electric chair.

Seated on a bench nearby were less than a dozen newspapermen and spectators. Standing at the electrical appliances was the official electrocutioner of Pennsylvania,
New York and Massachusetts,
Robert Elliott, who executed Rudyard Kipling, Judd Gray and Sacco and Vanzetti.

Jawarski was executed for the slaying of L. L. Gump, payroll guard who was fatally shot during a $48, 000 holdup of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company at Mollernauer, Pa., December 23, 1925. This was only one of the bandit's many murders and payroll robberies in western Pennsylvania, Detroit and Cleveland.

Another murderer, Calvin E.
James, of Bucks County, followed Jawarski to the electric chair by a few minutes.

Pyle set out in his land-cruiser today to chart the course for the "bunion derby" of 1929, which is to proceed from New York City to Los Angeles, starting March 31.

Despite the financial losses of the 1928 venture, the promoter bubbled over with his never-fading optimism, as he announced that he had secured training quarters for his athletes at Rockaway Park.

Pyle said he expects 250 entries, despite the fact that he has raised the entrance fee from $25 to $300. He is offering $60,000

CRIME WAVE CAUSES CONCERTED MOVE TO CHECK UNDERWORLD

Cafes, Speakeasies, Hotels And Theaters
Yield Suspects

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—
Thirty-five hundred inhabitants of the Chicago underworld, some in rags and some in tags and some in tuxedos and evening gowns, were in jail today after the biggest police cleanup in the city's history.

Smashing through cabarets, beer flats and speak-easies of the south and north sides and invading hotels and theaters, the entire Chicago police force worked double time over the week end in an attempt to halt the wave of lawlessness which had resulted in 102 robberies and four murders in the last week.

Gangland today was deserted.
Professional bondsmen and attorneys were insulted. Police merely smiled.

Forty police stations were jammed and overflowing with sitting prisoners.

The raids began Saturday night, halted temporarily Sunday morning, and were resumed Sunday night and lasted until dawn.

Police patrols and detective squad cars were as thick as cabs in the Loop. Theater patrons left their seats to witness the roundups. Several did not return.

Theaters, exclusive night clubs and restaurants were invaded. Patrons in full dress at the theater or in the various Loop night clubs were tapped on the shoulder and escorted to patrol wagons.

In the lobby of a Loop theater a burglar and a bootlegger, dressed in evening clothes, were taken into custody as they presented their tickets. Two youthful hardys were arrested as they were holding up a patron.

Shabbily dressed "hip" bootleggers were picked up on the streets and found their places in the patrol wagons with their more prosperous appearing brothers.

"Dago" Lawrence Minkand's result was entered by axes, and fifty men arrested.

Even the higher-ups, protected by bodyguards, were caught in the city-wide cleanup. Among the prominent guests behind the bars today were West Frank Butler, Pope, Ralph and Frank Butler,
Sammy Kaplan, Emil Cook, Nathan "Bunk" Goldberg, Joe Glaser and four lieutenants of "Polack Joe" Sall's.

Deputy Commissioner John Stagg will be master of ceremonies at the "showup" at which detectives will attempt to identify the prisoners with various crimes on record.

The arrests, police explained, were not made at random and in many every instance each individual taken in custody was charged with at least one misdemeanor.

Police said more than 300 wes-pons were found on the prisoners.

REPORT DR. LITTLE TO LEAVE MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY POST

Newspaper Claims
Prexy Considered
"Iconoclast"

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 21.—Resignation of Dr. Clarence Cook Little, president of the University of Michigan, will be tendered to the board of regents tonight, it was reported here today.

The Washtenaw Tribune, an Ann Arbor weekly, said it had learned "on reliable authority" that Dr. Little would resign, and that his resignation would be accepted.

The newspaper said Dr. Little's views were considered "iconoclastic" and declared he had not furnished the leadership the board had expected.

Members of the board admitted they had heard of the resignation report but denied they had direct knowledge it was true.

Since Dr. Little became University of Michigan's sixth president in 1925, coming from Colby College, Maine, he has been the central figure in considerable controversy over the university.

He was outspoken in his views on several questions of controversial nature, attracting much attention by his position as president of the Birth Control League and an attack upon the alleged "black list" of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

He clashed with the students some time before the football season when he demanded they invite federal prohibition agents in to investigate reports of wholesale liquor drinking on the campus.

When the student committee refused to do this, he took his views to the heads of fraternities.

His most recent clash came shortly before Christmas, after two students had been burned painfully in a fraternity initiation. Reports said liquor had been exacted from the Neophytes as part of their "pledge," and that the injuries were inflicted by persons who had imbibed too freely.

Instead of letting the matter take the routine course through the campus "courts," Dr. Little appeared personally as prosecutor.

However, the real reason behind the reported resignation is reported to be differences of opinion regarding large donations to the university.

Dr. Little has denied that he has received an offer of another post stating that the last offer he received came two years ago and was rejected.

SOLON'S DAUGHTER AND FIANCE KILLED

TIPPER, O., Jan. 21.—Mary Carpenter, 20, daughter of state Representative Ray C. Carpenter of Atolia, and Edward Rhinsoel, 28, of Willard, her fiancé, were killed near Bellevue last night when Rhinsoel's car was struck by an interurban.

The couple was returning from Sandusky when the accident occurred.

Miss Carpenter had been teaching school at Frank, near here.

Rhinsoel was employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Willard.

Their bodies were removed to their respective homes today.

TWO KILLED, SEVENTY HURT IN HOTEL BLAZE

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 21.—Two persons were killed and seventy were injured in a fire that destroyed the National Hotel here today.

Scores of guests escaped by ladders from the blazing five-story building. Firemen found the body of an unidentified man and that of a man registered as John J. Jones, Williston, N. D.

Among the more seriously injured were Olaf R. Lundberg, 58, a Chicago salesman, and Fred Krowl, address unknown. Owners of the building made no estimate of the loss. Cause was undetermined.

SWAMPS HOLD SECRET OF FOUR MISSING AFTER HUNTING TRIP

WILMINGTON, N. C., Jan. 21.—The treacherous Swamps of the Cape Fear River in Brunswick County today steadfastly held its secret—the secret of the fate of four young men who Friday set out upon a hunting trip and have become lost.

The party was made up of three brothers and a friend—Elliot and Randolph Huggins, of Wilmington, and Fred Ingler and Jessie Huggins of New York.

When they left the brothers easily assured their mother they would not get lost. When night came and the boys did not return concern was felt for their safety. Rescue parties were organized and a search begun. More than 200 men were enlisted.

Members of the crew of the United States Coast Guard Cutter Mado joined forces with the land party, and Captain Frederick Kreuzberg, a visiting German war ace, volunteered the use of his plane.

Captain Kreuzberg took off Sunday morning with two passengers—Deputy Sheriff Carl A. Cook and Otto Schmidt. After a flight over the marshy territory in which the youths are believed to have lost their way, the plane returned to Audubon Field where it crashed. All three occupants were seriously injured and the plane wrecked. They were reported resting well in a hospital here.

HARSH TO FACE DEATH UNLESS APPEAL WINS

Oglethorpe "Thrill Slayer" Convicted In Murder Case.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 21.—As George Harsh, condemned "thrill slayer" sat in his Fulton tower cell today under sentence of death in the electric chair March 15, his attorneys were preparing plans for a new trial.

The former Oglethorpe University student received no callers Sunday and was apparently still indifferent to his fate.

Harsh, son of a wealthy Milwaukee family, was convicted Saturday of the murder of Willard H. Smith, shot during an attempted holdup last October. He confessed and implicated his friend Richard Gallagher, of Atlanta, whose trial has been set for January 29.

At the trial ten physicians and alienists testified that Harsh was a constitutional psychopath. The defense did not ask acquittal, but for a mitigation sentence.

No indication has been volunteered by Harsh's attorneys as to what would be the basis upon which a petition for a new trial would be made, but it was announced that a formal conference would be held today.

GIRL KILLED, FIRE CHIEF IS INJURED

VAN WERT, O., Jan. 21.—Miss Gatha Jackson, 25, was killed and her father, Fire Chief W. E. Jackson, 55, was seriously injured when their automobile was struck by a speeding passenger train here late yesterday.

Chief Jackson drove onto the tracks into the path of the limited after waiting for a freight train, going in the opposite direction, to pass.

The machine was reduced to wreckage and Miss Jackson was killed instantly. Chief Jackson was picked up unconscious and removed to a hospital.

In addition to her father and mother, Mrs. George Fancher of Sylvania, was injured.

DODGE SUED AS FIGHT SEQUEL

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 21.—A fist fight between Horace Dodge, Detroit millionaire, and a hotel doorman, is the basis of a $25,000 damage suit against Dodge here.

The suit was filed by Harry Hastan, 36, doorman of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, who was discharged for "incivility to a guest" after an altercation with Dodge, last week.

The encounter occurred at the hotel entrance when Dodge and the doorman began an argument over parking. Dodge had driven to the entrance with his wife, and John Kackentzle, of the income tax department here.

Witnesses said the doorman and Dodge grappled and rolled around in the hotel garden. Hastan, it was said, required hospital treatment.

GUN VICTIMS

Central Press telephoto shows W. Griffith Gribble, millionaire society man, top, who was shot following a gun battle with police in which Inspector John Blackburn, below, was killed and police chauffeur wounded. Gribble is alleged to have shot the two men as they entered his home, after a call from Gribble's physician, to return him to a New York sanitarium, where he had been treated for shell-shock sustained in the World War. Other patrolmen shot Gribble in trying to subdue him. His condition is serious.

NOVELIST'S DEATH IS MYSTERY

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—An autopsy today is expected to determine the cause of the death of Leonard Cline, novelist, poet, playwright and former newspaper man, who was found dead yesterday in bed in his Greenwich Village apartment. He had been dead four days, according to Dr. Raymond B. Miles, assistant medical examiner.

Cline had been released July 15 from Connecticut state prison after serving ten months of a year's sentence, with a full pardon for good behavior, for manslaughter, for the killing of his life-long friend, Wilfred Irwin, a New York advertising man.

But the last seen of Cline alive was on Wednesday following a party which he had given in his apartment to celebrate the receipt of a $100 check for a scenario, which was to aid in the completion of the payment of a mortgage on his farm.

Three novels by Cline received favorable comment from the critics: "Godhead," "Listen, Moon," and "Dark Chamber," the last written in his cell.

Cline was 38 years old. His wife is living with her parents in Detroit.

Plans for a re-organization are under way and definite action on the appointment of a successor to Dean Nash is expected to be taken shortly, it is said.

Mr. Nash became identified with the college in 1921 after being discharged from the engineering corps in the army. For one year he was head of the civil engineering department at Northeastern University at Boston and served in a similar capacity at Antioch.

In taking up his new duties as director of the League of Nations Association, Mr. Nash succeeds Charles C. Bauer, formerly of Springfield. Upon his resignation, Mr. Bauer becomes vice-president of the council of the organization.

The association, since its organization in 1919, has carried on a vigorous educational campaign to strengthen the League of Nations and promote harmonious international relations. The association has promoted many of the World Court bills that have been proposed in congress and has also fostered a strong movement to arouse sentiment for membership in the league.

REMOVED TO SAFETY WHEN DOLLAR LINER GROUNDS ON SHOALS

Navy Vessels Rush Help;
Radio Call Brings
Rescue

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Eighty-three passengers of the grounded Dollar liner President Garfield were prepared early today to be landed at Nassau by the Munson liner Pan America, which took them from the sea in lifeboats.

The 151 members of the crew, mostly Chinese, waited aboard the President Garfield for the arrival of five naval vessels rushing to the aid of the disabled steamer.

The President Garfield, lying in the Little Bahama shoals, seventy-five miles east of Port Pierce on the Florida Coast, was reported to be in no danger. The vessel was not taking water and it has been unnecessary to man the pumps, according to word last received by radio.

Last Thursday the President Garfield put out from this port with a passenger list of eighty-three bound on a cruise around the world.

Havana was to have been the first port of call. At 7:25 a. m. yesterday a distress message was sent out which attracted several vessels.

The Pan America, being closest, was permitted to effect the rescue. According to word received here, the President Garfield had run by a slight buoy marking the shoals and when Capt. T. P. Quinn realized this he attempted to turn and retrace the course but was firmly grounded fore and aft.

Capt. Rose of the Pan America, rushing under forced draught to the stranded steamer, advised Capt. Quinn to put passengers and baggage in life boats to be transferred to the Pan America.

The resignation will become effective June 30, the close of the present academic year. Mr. Nash, who was appointed director of the association last December, expects to move to New York City, where headquarters of the association are located.

Plans for a re-organization are under way and definite action on the appointment of a successor to Dean Nash is expected to be taken shortly, it is said.

Mr. Nash became identified with the college in 1921 after being discharged from the engineering corps in the army. For one year he was head of the civil engineering department at Northeastern University at Boston and served in a similar capacity at Antioch.

In taking up his new duties as director of the League of Nations Association, Mr. Nash succeeds Charles C. Bauer, formerly of Springfield. Upon his resignation, Mr. Bauer becomes vice-president of the council of the organization.

RIP DEAD BUT MEMORY LINGERS

Famed Horned Toad Succumbed To Chill Air;
Disposition Of Body Is Puzzle

EASTLAND, Tex., Jan. 21.—The question of what to do with Old Rip, Eastland's horned toad, now that he is dead, is causing as much controversy as the question a year ago, "how did Old Rip die?"

Lured by a ray of sunshine from his protective glass covering Saturday Old Rip exposed himself to chilling January draughts and died.

Scores of suggestions as to the disposition of the famous reptilian body have come to Will M. Wood, custodian.

It had been decided that the sly creature should rest in state in a glass covered canopy in Eastland's new $300,000 courthouse that stands over the site of the cornerstone where Old Rip dozed for thirty-one years.

BABY LIVES

Born as his mother died from gunshot wounds inflicted by an enraged father-in-law, the infant son of Mrs. Frank Giannamore, of Seubenville, O., has gained weight. The mother died before an operation had been completed and oxygen was used to save the baby's life. Mrs. Giannamore and her mother-in-law both died in the hospital from wounds inflicted by the latter's husband, Vincenzo Giannamore, 63, who then took his own life, following a quarrel.

PAUL JAWARSKI IS ELECTROCUTED FOR MURDER IN HOLD UP

Dies With Sneer On Lips;
Refuses Spiritual
Aid

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., Jan. 21.—The state of Pennsylvania electrocuted today its most notorious criminal—Paul Jawarski.

Aroused from sleep at 5:30 a. m., by prison officials and served with breakfast, Jawarski was taken to the death chamber at 7 a. m., and a few minutes later his criminal career was ended in the electric chair.

This 32-year-old leader of payroll bandits and murderer, who boasted that he had killed at least two dozen men, died as he had lived, with a sneer on his lips for the laws of both God and man.

He refused to give permission for a minister to render religious consolation to him at life's end.

He refused to seem concerned over the fate the laws of the state had decreed for him.

He walked twenty-five feet from his death cell to the electric chair between two prison guards and met with an air of indifference, the death for which he said "I am ready."

"It would be against my belief as I have preached atheism all my life," Jawarski told prison authorities when they insisted that he have the attention of the prison chaplain.

With his hair clipped and attired in a prison shirt and a pair of blue trousers with the left leg slit to the knee, Jawarski was led into the death chamber and strapped into the electric chair.

Seated on a bench nearby were less than a dozen newspapermen and spectators. Standing at the electrical appliances was the official electrocutioner of Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts, Robert Elliott, who executed Ruth Snyder, Judd Gray and Sacco and Vanzetti.

Jawarski was executed for the slaying of L. L. Gump, payroll guard who was fatally shot during a $48,000 holdup of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company at Mollenbauer, Pa., December 23, 1925. This was only one of the bandit's many murders and payroll robberies in western Pennsylvania, Detroit and Cleveland.

Another murderer, Calvin E. James, of Bucks County followed Jawarski to the electric chair by a few minutes.

RYLE CHARTS ROUTE FOR BUNION DERBY

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—C. C. Pyle set out in his land cruiser today to chart the course for the "bunion derby" of 1929, which is to proceed from New York City to Los Angeles, starting March 31.

Despite the financial losses of the 1928 venture, the promoter bubbled over with his never-failing optimism, as he announced that he had secured training quarters for his athletes at Rockaway Park, Long Island, where training for the long trek will start March 11. Pyle said he expected 250 entries, despite the fact that he has raised the entrance fee from $25 to $300. He is offering $50,000 in prizes.

SENTENCE DOCTOR

CRIME WAVE CAUSES CONCERTED MOVE TO CHECK UNDERWORLD

Cafes, Speakeasies, Hotels And Theaters
Yield Suspects

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Thirty-five hundred inhabitants of the Chicago underworld, some in rags and some in tuxedos and some in evening gowns, were in jail today after the biggest police cleanup in the city's history.

Smashing through cabarets, beer flats and speakeasies of the south and north sides and invading hotels and theaters, the entire Chicago police force worked double time over the week end in an attempt to halt the wave of lawlessness which had resulted in 102 robberies and four murders in the last week.

Gangland today was deserted. Professional bondsmen and attorneys were insulted. Police merely smiled.

Forty police stations were jammed and overflowing with sewing prisoners.

The raids began Saturday night, halted temporarily Sunday morning, and were resumed Sunday night and lasted until dawn.

Police patrols and detective squad cars were as thick as the fog.

In the lobby of a Loop theater a burglar and a bootlegger, dressed in evening clothes, were taken into custody as they presented their tickets. Two youthful bandits were arrested as they were holding up a patrolman.

Shabbily dressed "hip" bootleggers were picked up on the street and found their places in the patrol wagons with their more prosperous appearing brothers.

"Dago" Lawrence Mangard's report was entered by axes, and fifty men arrested.

Even the higher-ups, protected by bodyguards, were caught in the city-wide cleanup. Among the prominent guests behind the bars today were "West Side" Frankie Pope, Ralph and Frank Buditz, Sammy Kaplan, Emil Cook, Nathan "Bunk" Goldberg, Joe Glaser and four lieutenants of "Polack Joe" Salts.

City Commissioner John Stearns will be master of ceremonies at the "showup" at which detainees will attempt to identify the prisoners with various crimes on record. The arrests, police explained, were not made at random and in every instance each individual taken in custody was charged with at least one misdemeanor.

Police said more than 300 weapons were found on the prisoners.

TAX PAYMENT TIME EXPIRES MONDAY; PENALTY PROVIDED

Monday was the final day for payment of the December installment of taxes and for obtaining 1529 dog tags without delinquency.

Under the law, January 20 is the deadline date but since this date came on Sunday, Greene County taxpayers were permitted to pay their taxes or procure dog licenses without penalty Monday.

Beginning Tuesday, tax-payers who have neglected to meet their tax obligations will be placed on the delinquent list. A $1 penalty will also be imposed on dog owners, making the price $2.50 for tags for male dogs, $5.50 for female dogs and $16 for dog kennels.

County Auditor R. O. Wead said the $1 penalty will not be enforced in case where dogs are acquired after January 20 and the owner buys a 1929 license at once.

Auditor Wead announced that more than 3,000 dog tags have been sold, which is about the same number disposed of at this time last year. During the entire year of 1928 between 3,800 and 3,900 dog tags were sold while 850 stray dogs were picked up by Alonzo Edwards, county dog warden.

TAX PAYMENT TIME EXPIRES MONDAY: PENALTY PROVIDED

Monday was the final day for payment of the December installment of taxes and for obtaining 1929 dog tags without delinquency. Under the law, January 20 is the deadline date but since this date came on Sunday, Greene County taxpayers were permitted to pay their taxes or procure dog licenses without penalty Monday.

Beginning Tuesday, taxpayers who have neglected to meet their tax obligations will be placed on the delinquent list. A $1 penalty will also be imposed on dog owners, making the price $2.50 for tags for male dogs, $5.50 for female dogs and $16 for dog kennels.

County Auditor R. O. Wead said the $1 penalty will not be enforced in case where dogs are acquired after January 20 and the owner buys a 1929 license at once.

Auditor Wead announced that more than 3,000 dog tags have been sold, which is about the same number as the entire year of 1928. During the year, 3,500 and 3,900 dog tags were sold while 850 stray dogs were picked up by Alton Edwards, county dog warden.

DELAY HEARING ON BOOTH INJUNCTION

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Postponement until Friday was granted today on hearings to issue a permanent injunction to Gen. Bramwell Booth, of the Salvation Army, restraining the high council from taking further action to depose him.

Lawyers for the high council had indicated they would seek the delay to allow them more time for briefs. A temporary injunction was obtained by Gen. Booth Friday restraining the high council from electing his successor. The injunction would have become permanent automatically today if the council or its representatives had failed to appear, legal authorities said.

Avoid Too Much Dosing For Flu Say Physicians

Its Toxins Uproot Stomach and Constant Dosing Further Disturbs Digestion.

According to health authorities, a peculiarity of influenza is that its toxins upset the digestive system, especially in the case of children. Too much "dosing" still further disturbs the digestion, and should be avoided except on advice of a physician.

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable because it is applied externally and so can be used freely with no risk of upsetting the digestion. Nor can it interfere with any other treatment your doctor may prescribe.

Rubbed on the throat and chest, Vicks acts two ways at once: (1) through the skin like a poultice, and (2) by means of its medicated vapors, released by body warmth and inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages.

In the present epidemic, as in 1918, Vicks is proving its usefulness in millions of homes in spite of vastly increased capacity. It is again necessary to run the laboratories all night long, as the public now demands over 375,000 jars every 24 hours. —Adv.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD IS OUR SALVATION—Truly in vain is salvation hoped for from the hills, and from the multitude of mountains: truly in the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel.—Jeremiah 3:23.

KILL-JOY OR PHILOSOPHER

John S. Summer, the well known gentleman who swings the big stick over New York's naughty books and plays, wants the world to know that he isn't a blue-nosed reformer—and that he wouldn't know what to do with a halo if he had one.

Mr. Summer, who, in his position as head of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, has been subject of scathing attacks from leading figures of the theatrical and literary worlds, offers a defense of himself and his activities in The American Sketch.

First of all he denies that he is: Lean, gaunt, that he has pale lack-lustre eyes or has protruding bony hands and wrists, or that he wears a black flowing tie, a Prince Albert, sideburns or a halo for a head piece. He smokes—and that violates one tradition.

"The epithet 'kill-joy' has been used," he says. "If that means antipathy to boozing at a night club or other disorderly place, O. K., I'm a kill-joy. If it means antipathy to approving by patronage every filthy show, O. K. again. If it means an ignoring of the commercialized dissemination, indiscriminately of demoralizing publications and other things, class me as a kill-joy."

"I get my joy of life—and I do enjoy life immensely—from other sources. I find my pleasure in mixing with the preponderating ordinary and normal people, neither highbrow nor lowbrow....

"I have no use for divorce or separation on trivial grounds, nor for trial marriage or any other matrimonial experiments, says The American Sketch article. I love family life, realizing that it is the basis of all successful social life and the most satisfying of human conceptions....

"Give me association with, and an increasing faith in, the soundness and sanity of humanity; give me the simple things of life that unsated human nature desires—what the huge bulk of our people, by their votes last November 6, showed that they desire; give me undiminished faith that human progress is actuated and guided by a power greater and more far-seeing than the sordid eyes of sensual appetite; and give me a place to serve in that scheme of social advancement. I shall be satisfied."

Not such a bad philosophy. And perhaps he may not be a kill-joy after all.

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

REAL PROBLEMS
Much talk about business and business problems. We are faced with all sorts of new conditions brought on by increasing production and changes in our economic life. But there are not the really important problems, graver, more vital. There are 2,000,000 mental defectives in the United States who need institutional care. This is probably a low estimate. There are 5,000,000 who have been unable to get through grade schools because of mental handicap, and 25,000,000 unable to do high school work.

THE FARMER'S GAIN
With all the sad news we hear from and about the farmer, there are some distinct improvements in his state of being which attract our attention. While farm labor is very high it is estimated that in one year farmers have saved $30,000,000 in labor cost by substituting machines for hired hands. One farmer with less human labor can cultivate many times more acres, with modern agricultural machinery, than his father could. We get a little sick of the mechanical age, sometimes, but if it were not for machines we might starve to death when 600,000 persons turn from the farms to the cities in a single year.

TELEPHONE SERVICE
In 1876 two men talked for the first time over a telephone. Today there are 7,000,000 miles of wire carrying more than 3,000,000 long distance messages every day in America. Still enthralled by the thrill of the radio and other spectacular inventions we have given scant attention to the amazing changes and improvements in the telephone service in this country. The common practice of getting a far distant city on the line in one to three minutes and the notable changes in clarity of tone are illustrations. Much that passes for the triumph of the radio is a triumph of telephone service. Much of the entertainment that you get over the radio is brought most of the way by telephone.

Who's Who and Timely Views

National Referendum in Declaring War Proposed

(Hamilton Fish, Jr., was born at Garrison, N. Y., Dec. 7, 1888. He was graduated from Harvard and studied law there for a year afterwards. Vice-president of an insurance company, he was a member of the New York assembly from 1919 to 1926. In 1926 he was elected to Congress to fill a vacancy in the 26th district and has served continually since then following re-elections. He served in the army during the World War.)

The proposed constitutional amendment for a referendum on war is the natural and logical step in the ratification of the Kellogg multilateral pact to renounce war as an instrument of national policy. I am offering the resolution at this time, when peace is thinking in terms of peace and the outbreak of wars between nations except strictly for self-defense. I propose to ask the chairman of the committee on the judiciary to fix a time for a public hearing.

If it would be consistent with the final action on the Kellogg pact to be taken by the Senate, I would favor adding the words "or of an established American foreign policy," after the words "except in the defense of the United States," thereby providing for a policy to protect the lives and property of our citizens against attack in foreign lands, and giving constitutional recognition and sanction to the Monroe doctrine for the first time, although conferred by the United States and admitted by the great powers of the world to be an established American foreign policy based on the principle of self-defense.

If there is any ambiguity in the multilateral treaty to our exact position, this proposed amendment would tend to make plain to the people of the world and in itself define beyond any question of doubt the attitude of the United States of America.

The question of war is so vital and so far reaching in its effect on the welfare of the American people that it is obviously justifiable to submit the issue to the collective judgment of the electors. I do not at this time wish to discuss in detail the merits of the proposition. If the proposed amendment were adopted it would constitute another obstacle or check on war, and the responsibility for the final decision would be placed squarely on those who would have to carry the rifle and bear the burdens.

The power to declare war represents the highest act of sovereignty and a self-governing people could well reserve the right to have a voice in the final determination of such an all-involving power which might jeopardize their collective lives and property.

THE ONE-MINUTE PULPIT

Serve the Lord with fear, and rejoice with trembling. Kiss the Son, lest he be angry, and ye perish from the way, when his wrath is kindled but a little. Blessed are all they that put their trust in him.—Psalms, 111:12.

There are two reasons for the success of this type of exercise. In the first place, all of the recreational exercises, such as golf, tennis, walking, swimming, dancing, skating, etc., develop muscular co-ordination. Secondly, they

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—What's this generation of Democrats coming to?—when one of them can get up in congress and create a regular sensation—by demanding "tariff revision downward." Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee did it recently and all Washington has been goggling at with astonishment ever since.

Senator Jim Reed could hardly have caused more amazement by declaring for the League of Nations, Senator Sheppard of Texas by urging repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment or Senator Norris by delivering an eulogy of the power interests.

Out-and-out free trade will not be as dead as a doornail on Capitol Hill while Representative George Huddleston of Alabama survives, but he is the only one I know of who absolutely is against any tariff at all—for revenue or anything else.

However, a belief in a simon-pure free trade is not a requisite even in a Jeffersonian Democrat. Tariff-for-revenue—only—ites were recognized by the father of Democracy himself. Perhaps he considered it a poor way to raise revenue, but at any rate, if they gave that as an excuse they got by.

Tariff-for-revenue Democrats (in theory) are not quite an extinct species. There may be a few genuine specimens of them lurking in odd corners of the Capitol building—though mostly (in practice) each of these who proclaims himself as such has an "industry" or two in his own back which he deems entitled to "protection," strictly as an exception from all he res.

But we all now what happened during the last campaign, when Al Smith summoned his party's lawmakers to step up and sub-

How to Achieve Beauty

BY NINE, HELENA RUBINSTEIN

The Abe

Now that we leave "all-fours" behind, the prime essential for cultivation is balance. Let us assume that we accept the evolution theory in toto. Embryonic man has now received the urge to start on two uncertain feet. Naturally, as entire internal organism must undergo certain changes. And what is even more important, his gradually growing weight must be shifted from a four-way balance to a two-way balance. That requires certain adjustments. Adjustments that to this present day we have not wholly encompassed. All the awkwardness of poor poise comes from this failure to adjust our muscles to proper balance.

Outside of the simple exercise which I have outlined, there are many, many ways of developing poise and balance. One of the best I know is dancing. As a matter of fact, while we're on the subject, I think this is an excellent time to discuss the recreational exercises as aids to beauty and guides to balance.

There are two reasons for the success of this type of exercise. In the first place, all of the recreational exercises, such as golf, tennis, walking, swimming, dancing, skating, etc., develop muscular co-ordination. Secondly, they scribe to the high tariff wall principle. The great majority of them stepped up and subscribed.

The fact is that a great many Democrats in the two houses of congress are stiffer protectionists than a great many Republicans. A queer thing is coming over the spirit of this country's tariff cream.

A whole lot of one-time free trade territory is developing big industries—and the protectionist clamor at the same time. And a whole lot of one-time very hard-boiled protectionists which are beginning to breed have foreign interests today doubts in their minds of the blessings of too much protection.

For instance, our bankers with huge outstanding loans abroad! How the dickens they are to collect them, unless they let their debtors' goods into the United States, they cannot see.

And our capitalists with big money invested in foreign industries!

Naturally they would like to see markets for those industries' products opened here.

And come of our exporters—who wish American production costs were lower, because then they could offer more attractive prices to overseas consumers, thus selling more goods.

In a way, the last election resembled like a great protectionist triumph.

Yet we shall see what we shall see. Maybe Representative Hull will find friends for his "tariff revision downward" program in quarters which nobody would have regarded as the least bit Jeffersonian not so many years ago.

To go back to this phase of our development, let me tell you a little about that terribly important lumbar region of your body that today's exercise helps to firm and strengthen. In the small of your back, we find what is known as the lumbar curve. When this region is thrown out of balance through improper posture, inefficient exercise and weak muscles the delicate mechanism of the internal organs is thrown all out of balance. I need not tell you how seriously this affects your health.

Oddly enough, there are few women who know the correct position in which their back and pelvic bones should be held. During the Howard Chandler Christy vogue we found women falling into the "sway back" habit—a posture, no doubt, induced through the fashionable figure of the day, which threw the hips outward and back, pulling the pelvis out of alignment and Dead, of Heart Disease.

Mr. Blank, a prominent writer, died yesterday at lunch, from heart disease. I read the news in this morning's paper. A picture of the deceased shows that he was considerably overweight.

From now on, notice the pictures of prominent men and women who die suddenly from heart disease, and you will be struck with the large percentage which show overweight. The extra work the heart has in pumping the blood through the excess tissue, the weakening of its fibers by fat and the toxemia from the unbalanced diet, may be contributory causes or they may be the chief causes in many cases of heart disease. (As well as disease of all the organs.)

Epilepsy.
G—I don't think it is wise to give symptoms of disease in the column. There are too many who are susceptible! If you have certain symptoms which are not normal, you should have a thorough physical examination by a competent physician so that you can have correct guidance and treatment.

The most modern control of epilepsy is through the "ketogenic" diet. In this diet, the starches and sugars are lowered markedly and the calories made up by more fats. However, it has to be worked out by the physician in charge of the case, and usually in conjunction with a dietitian. If your physician doesn't know about the diet, tell him to write to the Mayo Clinic for literature. They might send it to others besides doctors, but to a doctor or a dietitian would be able to interpret it.

"Is it better to eliminate all starches, sugars and fats from the diet, or to have a mixed diet not over 1,200 calories a day in order to reduce? I am only 4 feet 11 inches tall, weigh 126 pounds, and am 26 years old. MRS. J. You ought to weigh around 100, so you are from 20 to 25 pounds overweight. Mrs. J. It may be possible that you will have to go under 1,200 calories in order to reduce one and one-half to two pounds a week, because you are so tiny. Of course, it isn't necessary to lose as fast as that. If you lose only one pound a week, you'll have your excess off in five months, and if you love only one-half pound, you'll have it off in ten months."

It is better to have a mixed diet, but the sweets and starches and oils, must be cut down very markedly, as they are so high in energy and heating value—in other words, calories. You must have all the foods you need for normal functioning, repair and growth of new blood cells, and this foundation diet is approximately 800 C. The Petersizing pamphlet gives you this foundation diet and enough of the caloric values of foods to tide you over until you can go to the bookstore or library and get a good book on the subject.

Mrs. B. wants my recipe for apple catsup which she has lost. She found it to be very good. Not infrequently my readers confuse other articles with mine. I am sorry I don't know how to make this catsup. Mrs. B. You should be able to find it in any complete cookbook. I'll add my two cents' worth. The caloric value of tomato catsup—and apple catsup would probably be about the same—is only a dozen or eight tablespoons. They are good condiments. The tomato especially, for tomato is high in the anti-scorbutic vitamins.

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE VINCENT

THE LYNX IS UPON US!

"Gobble! Gobble! The Lynx is upon us!" chattered Gobbler, his wattle shaking with fright. Peter felt the bird's body stiffen again as it had done before. But this time instead of dropping to the ground and crouching there, Gobbler darted into the air with a movement quicker than the boy had dreamed he could make, and soared to a height that he would never have thought possible for a Turkey to get to.

Out of breath, Gobbler landed on a branch that was hidden by a corner bough, and edged his way along the branch to the trunk of the tree, weeping Turkey tears as he went.

What a hubbub was going on in the underwood beneath Gobbler and Peter.

Even the Pigeons in the great woods by the river that was green had not made such a din as this.

He patted his friend upon the back. "There, there, old chap," said he, trying to comfort Gobbler. "Don't feel so badly about it. It could be worse, you know. It is too bad that any of the Turkeys have to suffer, but after all, I think most of them get out of the creature's way in time and now they are probably screaming more from fright than from hurt."

"Luckily by this time all the Turkeys are on guard! Lynx will have a hard time catching any of them tonight, and by and by he will give it up as bad job and slink away. If you ask me, I think the worst is over."

"I dare say you are right, Boy, but that makes very little difference to me now," replied Gobbler, mounfully, snuffing and trying his best to wipe away his tears with his claw.

"I have seen a Turkey struck to the ground by his worst enemy, and that is enough to make me sad for a long time. In fact, I may never feel cheerful again."

"But why not?" asked Peter, in surprise. "It was an accident, you know. It was too bad that poor Turkey in front of us had to meet his fate. But come, cheer up. It might have been you, old fellow."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD IS OUR SALVATION—Truly in vain is salvation hoped for from the hills, and from the multitude of mountains: truly in the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel.—Jeremiah 3:23.

KILL-JOY OR PHILOSOPHER

John S. Summer, the well known gentleman who swings the big stick over New York's naughty gentlemen and plays, wants the world to know that he isn't a blue-nosed reformer—and that he wouldn't know what to do with a halo if he had one.

Mr. Summer, who, in his position as head of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, has been subject of scathing attacks from leading figures of the theatrical and literary worlds, offers a defense of himself and his activities in The American Sketch.

First of all he denies that he is: Lean, gaunt, that he has pale lack-lustre eyes or has protruding bony hands and wrists, or that he wears a black flowing tie, a Prince Albert, sideburns or a halo for a head piece. He smokes—and that violates one tradition.

"The epithet 'kill-joy' has been used," he says. "If that means antipathy to boozing at a night club or other disorderly place, O. K., I'm a kill-joy. If it means antipathy to approving by patronage every filthy show, O. K. again. If it means an ignoring of the commercialized dissemination, indiscriminately of demoralizing publications and other things, class me as a kill-joy."

"I get my joy of life—and I do enjoy life immensely—from other sources. I find my pleasure in mixing with the preponderating ordinary and normal people, neither highbrow nor lowbrow...."

"I have no use for divorce or separation on trivial grounds, nor for trial marriage or any other matrimonial experiments, says The American Sketch article. I love family life, realizing that it is the basis of all successful social life and the most satisfying of human conceptions...."

"Give me association with, and an increasing faith in, the soundness and saneness of humanity; give me the simple things of life that unsated human nature desires—what the huge bulk of our people, by their votes last November 6, showed that they desire; give me undiminished faith that human progress is actuated and guided by a power greater and more far-seeing than the sordid eyes of sensual appetite; and give me a place to serve in that scheme of social advancement. I shall be satisfied."

Not such a bad philosophy. And perhaps he may not be a kill-joy after all.

REAL PROBLEMS
Much talk about business and business problems. We are faced with all sorts of new conditions brought on by increasing production and changes in our economic life. But they are not the really important problem, graver, more vital. There are 2,000,000 mental defectives in the United States who need institutional care. This is probably a low estimate. There are 5,000,000 who have been unable to get through grade schools because of mental handicap, and 25,000,000 unable to do high school work.

THE FARMER'S GAIN
With all the sad news we hear from and about the farmer, there are some distinct improvements in his state of being which attract our attention. While farm labor is very high it is estimated that in one year farmers have saved $30,000,000 in labor cost by substituting machines for hired hands. One farmer with less human labor can cultivate many times more acres, with modern agricultural machinery, than his father could. We get a little sick of the mechanical age sometimes, but if it were not for machinery we might starve to death when 600,000 persons turn from the farms to the cities in a single year.

TELEPHONE SERVICE
In 1876 two men talked for the first time over a telephone. Today there are 7,000,000 miles of wire carrying more than 3,000,000 long distance messages every day in America. Still enthralled by the thrill of the radio and other spectacular inventions we have given scant attention to the amazing changes and improvements in the telephone service in this country. The common practice of getting a far distant party on the line in a few minutes and the notable changes in clarity of tone are illustrations. Much that passes for the triumph of the radio is a triumph of telephone service. Much of the entertainment that you get over the radio is brought most of the way by telephone.

National Referendum in Declaring War Proposed

(Hamilton Fish, Jr., was born at Garrison, N. Y., Dec. 7, 1888. He was graduated from Harvard and studied law there for a year afterwards. Vice-president of an insurance company, he was a member of the New York assembly from 1914 to 1916. In 1919 he was elected to congress to fill a vacancy in the 26th district and has served continually since then following re-elections. He served in the army during the World war.)

The proposed constitutional amendment for a referendum on war is the natural and logical step after ratification of the Kellogg multilateral pact to renounce war as an instrument of national policy. I am offering the resolution at this time, when people are thinking in terms of peace and the outlawry of wars between nations except strictly for self-defense. I propose to ask the chairman of the committee on the judiciary to fix a time for a public hearing.

If it would be consistent with the final action on the Kellogg pact to be taken by the Senate, I would favor adding the words "or of an established American foreign policy," after the words "except in the defense of the United States," thereby providing more specifically for our traditional policy to protect the lives and property of our citizens against attack in foreign lands, and giving constitutional recognition and sanction to the Monroe Doctrine for the first time, although considered by the United States and admitted by the great powers of the world to be established American foreign policy based on the principle of self-defense. If there is any ambiguity in the multilateral treaty as to our exact position this proposed amendment would tend to make plain to the people of the world the policy we intend to follow beyond any question of doubt the attitude of the United States of America.

The question of war is so vital and so far reaching in its effect on the welfare of the American people that it is obviously justifiable to submit the issue to the collective judgment of the electors. I do not at this time wish to discuss in detail the merits of a proposition. If the proposed amendment were adopted it would constitute another obstacle to check our right to adjust our policy for the final decision would be placed squarely on those who would have to carry the rifle and bear the burdens.

The power to declare war represents the highest act of sovereignty and a self-governing people could well reserve the right to have a voice in the final determination of such an all-involving power which might jeopardize their collective lives and property.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—What's this generation of Democrats coming to?—when one of them can get up in congress and create a regular sensation—by demanding "tariff revision downward." Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee did it recently and all Washington has been goggling with astonishment ever since.

Senator Jim Reed could hardly have caused more amazement by declaring for the League of Nations, Senator Sheppard of Texas by urging repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment or Senator Norris by delivering an eulogy of the power interests.

Out-and-out free trade will not be as dead as a doornail on Capitol Hill while Representative George Huddleston of Alabama survives, but he is the only one I know of who absolutely is against any tariff at all—for revenue or anything else.

However, a belief in a simple free trade is not a requisite even in a Jeffersonian Democrat. Tariff-for-revenue—only—has been recognized by the father of Democracy himself. Perhaps he considered it a poor way to raise revenue, but at any rate, if they gave that as an excuse they got by.

Tariff-for-revenue Democrats (a theory) are not quite an extinct species.

There may be a few genuine specimens of them lurking in odd corners of the Capitol building—though mostly (in practice) each of these who proclaims himself as such has an "industry" or two in his own back which he deems entitled to "protection," strictly as an exception from all he has.

But we all know what happened during the last campaign, when Al Smith summoned his party's lawmakers to step up and subscribe to the high tariff wall principle. The great majority of them stepped up and subscribed.

The fact is that a great many Democrats in the two houses of congress are stiffer protectionists than a great many Republicans.

A queer thing is coming over the spirit of this country's tariff dream. A whole lot of one-time free trade territory is developing big industries—and the protectionists are beginning to breed have foreign interests today doubts in their minds of the blessings of too much protection.

For instance, our bankers with huge outstanding loans abroad! How the dickens they are to collect them, unless they let their debtors' goods into the United States, they cannot see. And our capitalists with big money invested in foreign industries! Naturally they would like to see markets for those industries' products opened here.

And some of our exporters—who wish American production costs were lower, because then they could offer more attractive prices to overseas consumers, thus selling more goods.

In a way, the last election result looked like a great protectionist triumph. Yet we shall see what we shall see.

Maybe Representative Hull will find friends for his "tariff revision downward" program in quarters which nobody would have regarded as the least bit Jeffersonian not so many years ago.

Today's Recipes

Rice Hash—One pound ground hamburger or leftover meat, one can of tomatoes, one cup of rice, salt and pepper and one egg beaten about one hour.

Filet of Sole—Roll filet in crackers crumbs or flour, fry brown in fat in frying pan.

Tartar Sauce—Make one cup mayonnaise. Chop very fine one tablespoon each of capers, olives, pickles, and parsley. Press in a cloth until quite dry. Blend gradually with the mayonnaise.

Deen Fat Frivne

Frying potatoes in deep fat is not nearly so difficult as many people believe, and lattice potatoes, shoe-string potatoes, French fries and potato chips are all different forms in which potatoes may be cooked at home in deep fat. This gives them the delicate brown color and crisp texture that makes them so welcome wherever served.

The grooved board, covered with a piece of tin with a cutting edge for making lattice potatoes can be bought almost anywhere kitchen wares are sold. It is not expensive. Shoe-string potatoes can also be cut on this board, or with a knife. A knife is generally used for cutting potatoes into strings for French frying. A vegetable slicer or special cutter is needed to make potato chips.

In whatever form the potatoes are cut, they should be rinsed in cold running water and soaked for two or three hours in cold water to remove as much starch as possible, stys the bureau of home economics. Dip the pieces from the water and pat them with a clean, dry cloth to absorb as much moisture as possible. Heat a kettle of deep fat hot enough to brown a small piece of bread in 60 seconds. Fry about a cupful of pieces at a time. Remove them from the fat when golden brown, drain on clean absorbent paper and sprinkle with salt.

many letters I see where the writers knock the modern girl. Now, Mrs. Lee I can't see why a girl shouldn't smoke if she doesn't want to, any more than a man. Why shouldn't she take a drink to be sociable if she knows when to stop? I have friends who think it's terrible to do these things, but they think nothing of letting some fellow kiss and maul them, and fairly lack feminine modesty. I have never and never go in for it, but if a fellow takes a girl out three or four times I think she should at least kiss him good night, if he asks her to, if she likes him at all. I want to say one thing, Mrs. Lee, I have my own ideas about love, and I hope some day to meet a real clean fellow, and to him only I will give a real kiss. Please don't think I am a girl that runs around a lot, because I am not. I hardly ever go out, but when I do I love life of fun.

"Gobble! Gobble! The Lynx is upon us, chattered Gobbler. His wattle's shaking with fright. Peter felt the bird's body stiffen again as it had once before, but this time instead of dropping to the ground and crouching there, Gobbler darted into the air with a movement quicker than the boy had dreamed he could make, and soared to a height that he would never have thought possible for a Turkey to get to.

Out of breath Gobbler landed on a branch that was hidden by other boughs, and edged his way along the branch to the trunk of the tree, weeping Turkey tears as he went.

What a hubbub was going on in the underwood beneath Gobbler and Peter.

Even the Pigeons in the great woods by the river that was green had not made such a din as this.

Gobbling with fear and snapping at those of their own folk who got in their way, the Turkeys were flapping about, trying their best to get out of the reach of that terrible foe who struck from above.

All the while Gobbler shivered and shook and wagged his drooping wattles, and wept as if his heart would break. At last Peter could stand it no longer.

Next: "Safe, Gobbler Mount for His 'Lost Friend'."

Those Xenia Central "Buccaners" who acquitted themselves so nobly last Friday night in their first appearance on a strange floor, will be given another glorious opportunity next Friday night to show home folks a continuance of their fine play when they clash with the lowly Miami Valley quintet in a third straight Miami Valley league game at Central gymnasium.

With the game at Central gymnasium, Xenia and Piqua have a combined first mortgage on the 1929 championship.

Comparative scores would indicate that the Bucs are about forty-four points better than Miami Valley. This conclusion is arrived at by the fact Piqua defeated Troy 20 to 12 and Xenia did the trick by 35 to 9. For the sake of argument, this would seem to give Xenia a fifteen-point edge over Piqua. Then Piqua comes along and beats Miami Valley 42 to 13, a margin of twenty-nine points. Add twenty-nine and fifteen together and you have forty-four.

This line of reasoning, however, may be all damp when the battle rolls around, and although the undefeated Bucs are favored to win their sixth straight game and their third straight league victory, the contest may develop into more of a fight than anticipated.

Xenia and Piqua, each with two victories and no defeats, were the only unbeaten teams in the Miami Valley League Monday as a result of a weekend of basketball which saw four of the six league teams in action.

Xenia's latest pushover was Troy. The Bucs had the game safely tucked away before the Trojans shot a field goal near the end of the first half, and finally won 32 to 9. Piqua climbed up beside Xenia by beating Miami Valley 42 to 13.

Troy and Greenville have yet to record a victory and this system of mathematics leaves these teams at the bottom of the ladder for the present.

There will be no vacation for any of the six league teams this week. Piqua plays at Greenville, Troy at Sidney and Miami Valley at Xenia Friday night.

Neither Xenia or Piqua is expected to have a clear road to the championship until these two teams meet February 22 at Piqua, so indications point to a continued double-dip for the present at least.

If a Xenia favorite must be selected, Xenia is the logical choice. That is because of its triumph over one of the strongest contenders in the race, Sidney.

INDIANAPOLIS IS DEFEATED BY FIVE FROM WILBERFORCE

Wilberforce University's basketball team turned back the invasion of the Indianapolis, Ind. Y. M. C. A. quintet by scoring a 40 to 28 victory over the visitors on the Wilberforce floor Friday night.

H. Carter, Wilberforce center, led both teams in scoring with eight baskets, a total of sixteen points. Gibbs, a forward, accounted for twelve points. Zeigler, Indianapolis forward, topped his team with ten points. Lineups and summary:

BLUEFIELD BOWS TO WILBERFORCE II, IN FOURTH COURT TILT

Overwhelming Win Averages Defeat In Football

Wilberforce University's basketball quintet romped to its fourth straight victory in defeating Bluefield Institute, Bluefield, W. Va. 61 to 18 on the Wilberforce floor Saturday night.

The overwhelming victory averaged the 2 to 0 setback administered by Bluefield in football in the opening game of the 1928 campaign and also marked Wilberforce's second win in as many days. Walter L. "Pinkie" Wilson, Xenia Central High coach, officiated.

Carter, center, and Gibbs, forward, were the leading point getters for the winners and each personally scored enough points to have beaten the visiting quintet single-handed. Carter looped in ten baskets and two fouls for twenty-two points while Gibbs registered eight fielders and three free throws for nineteen points. Carroll Lucas, Gibbs' running mate, contributed six baskets. Buford scored seven points, led Bluefield in scoring. Lineups and summary:

MCKINLEY TEAMS TO OCCUPY LIMELIGHT IN SCHOOL LEAGUE

Spring Hill Teams Idle This Week In Grade Loop.

McKinley fourth, fifth and sixth grade teams will occupy the center of the stage in the sixth round of the Intra-City Grade School Basketball League Saturday morning, January 26 at Central High gymnasium.

Spring Hill teams will not participate in this round. McKinley 6B and Spring Hill fourth grade quintets are the only teams in the league still undefeated and they have apparently clinched the championship in their own divisions.

The winner in the fifth grade division is still a matter for conjecture. Spring Hill is leading with three victories and one defeat but McKinley 5B has a chance to tie the leaders by defeating McKinley 5A Saturday.

Saturday morning McKinley 4A and 4B teams meet at 9 o'clock with McKinley 5A and 5B tangling at 10 o'clock and McKinley 6A and 6B opposing each other at 11 o'clock.

CEDARVILLE DROPS TWO OVER WEEK-END; FATIGUED BY TRIP

Cedarville College's basketball team suffered its sixth and seventh defeats out of nine starts this season in week-end games Friday and Saturday night.

Traveling to Hanover, Ind., Friday night the "Yellow Jackets" lost the verdict to Hanover College by a nine-point margin. The final score was 36 to 27.

Scheduled to return home the same night, the squad was forced to spend the night at Hanover because of a heavy storm resulting in washouts.

The team did not arrive at Cedarville until 3 p. m. Saturday and all tuckered out from the long 17-mile motor trip to Hanover. The "Yellow Jackets" offered only faint-hearted opposition to Bliss Business College of Columbus in a game at Alfred gymnasium that night, losing 41 to 22.

Cedarville made a battle of it the first half, finishing on the short

THE LIFE OF TEX RICKARD

Being A Colorful Account Of One Of America's Most Colorful Characters

CHAPTER IX

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

United Press Staff Correspondent

Copyright 1929, By United Press

It was during the period between the "Battle of the Century" and the Dempsey-Firpo fight that Tex Rickard achieved general recognition as the greatest of modern promoters.

During the two years that intervened between those epic fights, Tex was constantly in the limelight, recognized now as dictator by the pugilistic fraternity, but still to win the financial backing which a little later was to make him a millionaire as well. The development of another opponent for Jack Dempsey was Rickard's chief concern during the year 1922. The big South American Luis Angel Spinto, having been decided upon, the problem then became two-fold. Firpo had to be "ballyhoed" as those behind the scenes called it. Thousands who paid their way in never saw the fight, but everyone felt he had his money's worth by having been a party to that five minutes of sheer hysteria.

Rickard was made greater than ever by the sheer chance that the fight turned out as it did.

Firpo lumbered from his corner at the ball, caught Dempsey before the champion could get his hands up, and smashed home a looping, overhand right which grazed Jack's temple. If the blow had landed on "the button," the fight would have been over. As it was, Dempsey sank to one knee, but recovered quickly, and Firpo was too clumsy to take advantage of his opening.

Then began a smashing series of knock-downs, with science forgotten. The mighty frame of Firpo was flattened to the canvas time after time, but always he clambered bewilderedly to his feet, and Dempsey smashed him down again. Firpo came up fighting, starting his punches before his hands left the canvas, as he tottered upright. Occasionally Jack slashed home to the "Wild Bull's" battered chops before Firpo was fairly on his feet, but rules were forgotten in the madness of that first three minutes.

Dempsey Through Ropes

The climax of the round came towards its close, when a long sweeping right from Firpo, who had been doing some fighting on his own behalf, sent Dempsey staggering back upon the ropes.

For an agonizing moment, the heavyweight champion of the world was balanced on the middle strand of rope, head and torso outside. Then he fell head-first into the welter of shouting newspapermen at the ringside.

Firpo fell upon Dempsey, crushed him to the ropes, hammered him with both hands, beating against the arms behind which Jack tried to protect his jaw. The bull found the big Argentine and the dazed champion in equally bad shape. Firpo was so exhausted he fell down in reaching his corner.

Won Between Rounds

Between rounds, the fight was won. Jack Kearns, in Dempsey's corner, ministered skillfully and speedily to his man. Smelling salts, a soothing massage, a quick whispered word or two and the champion was himself again.

Firpo's seconds threw a half-bucket of dirty water in the general direction of their man and stood gazing at him.

The second round was a slaughter of the "Wild Bull." Dempsey was fighting mad, but "cold mad." He slashed viciously with left and right hooks alternately, and Firpo went down as though pole-axed. When the glazed eyes finally closed and the great hairy limbs refused any longer to respond to the Argentine's game spirit, Luis Angel Firpo rolled over onto his back and was counted out. How many times he went down will always be a subject of dispute.

This fight grossed $1,188,602.80 and added greatly to Rickard's prestige. So generally approved was his handling of the battles of the heavyweight champion that he was able to resist for three years thereafter insistent demands that Jack Dempsey fight again.

Tomorrow's chapter will deal with Rickard's dream of a magnificent sports palace.

NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY

Hecht—"The Front Page." A swift and uproarious comedy of newspapers which New York welcomed by kicking up its heels in glee over the picturesque characters, their careless speech and exciting environment.

Brown—"That Man Heine." A life of Heinrich Heine that is a clean-cut, semi-analytical retelling of Heine's rather woolly career, sympathetic to his tendencies and free from any sentimental glossing over of that febrile delight in living that brought the poet to his death.

Roosevelt—"Diaries of Boyhood and Youth." A companion volume to Theodore Roosevelt's letters to his children and a veritable mine of treasure for keeping Roosevelt's birthday (October 28th) green. These diaries begin when Roosevelt was nine and give the most natural and human picture of American children traveling abroad that I have ever read.

Hardy—"Early Life." From Thomas Hardy's 1896-1891. From contemporary notes, letters and diaries supplemented by remembered conversations. Mr. Hardy's widow has told the story of his life from 1840 to 1891, when his "young manhood" came to an end and most of his great novels were already written. It is by his life so devoid of artifice, so simple in its structure, as the talk of an old man over the fire about his past. Much of it, indeed, was written down by Mrs.

U. S. Girl Jailed by Turks For Bible Teaching

But Neither Culprit Nor Court See Anything To Worry About

By SHIRLEY KIRKE

NEW YORK—In the reign of Abdul Hamid, the "Red Sultan," a cablegram telling of the imprisonment of a young and beautiful American missionary in far-off Turkey would have sent a wave of horror and indignation over the United States.

It probably would have been followed immediately by excited activity in Washington, international complications and the dispatch of gunboats to the Desphorus.

Nobody Has Gotten Excited

It is therefore interesting that although word comes from Constantinople to the effect that Edith Sanderson, pretty Omaha, Neb., teacher, has been tried, convicted and sentenced by an Ottoman court to a term in jail for converting young Moslem pupils to Christianity, nobody has gotten very much excited about it.

Least of all the young missionary herself.

The pretty missionary's school is situated in Broussa, a quiet, ancient, picturesque town in the mountains, where Americans are popular and have done a lot of good. So old Judge Nizamidine, who happens not to be fanatic about anything except his bridge, sent a policeman to call politely and request the attendance in court of the teacher.

She duly appeared and stood trial. The diaries of some of her pupils indicated a certain amount of sectarian Christian propaganda had been going on. It seems that Miss Sanderson had given Bible to several youngsters and had "discussed" the New Testament with them. In addition one of the girls testified that they and the teachers put on their best dresses on Sunday, but worked at their classes on Friday, which is the Moslem Sabbath.

Law Bars Religious Propaganda

These certainly weren't serious offenses nor did the judge imply that Miss Sanderson had done anything particularly dreadful. She had, however, violated one of the laws of the land, a statute which prohibits the spreading of religious propaganda in the schools.

The court therefore imposed a nominal sentence of a fine of three Turkish gold pounds, about $13, and a term of three days in jail, which he told Miss Sanderson courteously, she might serve at her convenience. Indeed he suggested that she might "rest up" the three days in her room and call things square.

Thus the world gradually becomes more tolerant and by the same token a pleasant place to live in. (Copyright, 1928, International Live-Entitled News)

GRAND JURIES FAIL TO INDICT ALLEGED FRAUDULENT VOTERS

(This is the fourth of a series of six dispatches on New Jersey's spectacular battle between Joseph Albert Dear, newspaper publisher, and Frank Hague, Democratic boss.)

By ELI IVES COLLINS
Staff Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Jan. 21.—Robert Carey, who attacked Mayor Frank Hague, New Jersey Democratic boss, and his machine as a foe of good government, ran second in the 1925 four-cornered race for the Hudson County grand jury to indict some of the alleged 20,000 fraudulent voters, and although a special deputy attorney general was appointed to prosecute, three grand juries in succession—the first of which was ousted when it was found that two of its Democratic members had voted in the Republican boxes—failed to take any action.

In the late spring of 1928, the committee appointed by the legislature under broad powers to investigate any thing or person in the state, went into action under the leadership of Senator Clarence E. Watson.

These men had good cause to remember the Hague machine. They were of the counsel who obtained the acquittal of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, in the Hall-Mills murder trial in Somerville two years ago.

It was Mayor Hague who sent Jersey City detectives to help Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson, a Hague adherent and Jersey City lawyer, prosecute the case.

That night of blood and mystery beneath a crabapple tree in De Russy's lane September 14, 1922, still is potent to stir dark passions in the state, the Hague men are sure, and they believe that the ghosts of the Hall-Mills tragedy do not slumber.

Hague was summoned early before the case committee and questioned briefly. He supported the view that he called him later when it should have developed more material on which to examine him. But a great many things happened to mar the committee's plans. The next dispatch will continue the story.

NO MAYOR—NO COURT
City Commission has made a startling discovery. It is that if for some reason he regularly appointed mayor if the city is unable to serve in that capacity, it is without authority under the city charter to appoint a successor to fill the vacancy temporarily during his incumbency.

There is no adequate remedy at law since the city charter contains no provision for empowering any of the other commissions to serve as mayor and preside over the mayor's court in his stead.

Therefore if the mayor is temporarily not available, the court stops functioning.

"It's just as nice as having company," chuckled Rosy. "Ma says we can't afford to have company very often."

Realizing she had made a mistake, Rosy colored to the roots of her hair.

"But ma," she said, answering the anguished look in her mother's eyes, "you know what I mean. She's company in a way, but it doesn't cost anything extra."

The ice was broken and they all laughed except Rosy.

Byrd found she was really hungry, and took another helping of the meat pie. The potatoes were plain boiled, cooked in their jackets and everybody peeled their own.

"It saves me a little extra work," said Mrs. Kelly, apologetically.

LET'S LIVE! MILDRED LAMB

By MILDRED LAMB

CHAPTER LIV

Byrd was surprised that she felt almost no nervousness.

"Guess I'm getting shock proof," she said to Chet, "nothing can put a dent in me any more."

Calmly she read the article which was plainly seen in the middle of the page.

It was a short article to the effect that each of the eight directors of the Hillendale and Sunset Point Realty companies were liable for fifty thousand dollars apiece. The names of the directors were given again and Larry's name was among them.

Byrd's evening was ruined. She tried to play bridge, but she couldn't keep her mind on the game.

Finally she pushed her chair back from the table.

"It's no use," she said, "I can't play. My nerves are all on edge. I'm going back to my room."

Chet suggested a movie and then a drive and then a run out to see Fred and Tiny, but with each suggestion Byrd shook her head.

"You and Pat go and drop me off."

Chet started the car in the direction of the Kellys' rooming house, but stopped to make one last suggestion.

"Home, James!" said Byrd, gayly, but there was a false note in her voice.

Byrd knew they hated to leave her at the Kellys.

"It's perfectly outrageous," began Pat, as they stopped in front of the house, "that you won't come and live with your own sister. Don't you think it's rotten of her, Chet?"

Chet started the old arguments all over again.

"Pat's learning to be a good housekeeper," said Byrd, slyly, "I've been there she might stop trying."

Pat gave her a frosty look.

There was no doubt in Byrd's mind that Pat's offer to give her room and board was not quite as generous as Pat made it out to be.

The next night Byrd stopped at a circulating library and took home some books. She spent quite the evening reading. She didn't want any dinner, but she bought some cheese and crackers in case she got hungry.

Mrs. Kelly saw her with her paper parcels as she started upstairs.

"You're home early, Mrs. Brown," she said, in her kind voice. "Have you had your dinner already?"

"I haven't been feeling very well for a few days," explained Byrd, "and I've completely lost my appetite. I bought a few things in case I get hungry."

"We're just sitting down to supper," Mrs. Kelly said hospitably. "Will you have your tea in up?"

"I know I couldn't eat a mouthful," said Byrd, "I really think I better go to bed and get a good night's sleep. I've been carrying a good deal on my mind lately."

Byrd stopped abruptly. The words just fell from her tongue.

She heard the scraping of a chair and wished she could get upstairs before Martin heard her. He was at the door of the hall as she reached the landing.

"Please have a bite of supper with us, Mrs. Brown," he said. "I want you to see what a good cook my mother is."

Martin had a way of setting things. But it made Byrd a little cross to think he took such a matter-of-fact manner with her.

She found herself in the dining room before she could give the descending refusal that was on the tip of her tongue.

"Well," she said helplessly, as she felt herself shoved into a chair. There was a growing form in the center of the table and the tablecloth was snow white, hardly showing the fine mending all over it.

There was a hot plate at each place and Mr. Kelly was helping himself to a steaming beef potpie before he passed it around to the others.

He sat at the table with his shoulders humped over his food and hardly needed to lift his fork to get it into his mouth. He was very near-sighted, Byrd thought, and no sign of criticism in her mind.

She wanted you to feel at home with us, Mrs. Kelly, peering vaguely in her direction through his thick glasses.

"It's just as nice as having company," chuckled Rosy. "Ma says we can't afford to have company very often."

Realizing she had made a mistake, Rosy colored to the roots of her hair.

"But ma," she said, answering the anguished look in her mother's eyes, "you know what I mean. She's company in a way, but it doesn't cost anything extra."

The ice was broken and they all laughed except Rosy.

Byrd found she was really hungry, and took another helping of the meat pie. The potatoes were plain boiled, cooked in their jackets and everybody peeled their own.

"It saves me a little extra work," said Mrs. Kelly, apologetically.

"My mother says it's the only way to get all the good in the potato," said Byrd.

Mr. Kelly asked Byrd about her family and she told them about them, lingering lovingly over her father's career. But by tacit agreement, the subject of her own life was avoided.

"Gee, it's lucky we're having dinner tonight," said Rosy, as she finished her second piece of ginger bread with lemon sauce.

"Looks like you had all the luck," laughed Martin.

"Let me help you with the dishes," offered Byrd, as they rose from the table.

"I should say not," answered Martin, "not with a big kid like Rosy around."

"Which remark doesn't tickle Rosy any too much," giggled Mr. Kelly.

After thanking Mrs. Kelly for the lovely dinner, Byrd started upstairs when Martin again detained her with a hand on her arm.

"I suppose you'd turn me down flat if I made a suggestion," he said with a twinkle in his eyes.

"Of course I will," said Byrd.

"Well, that encourages me to make it anyway," he said, in an ingratiating tone. "It's a beautiful night, and much too early for you to go to bed. I'd like to take you out for a little ride, perhaps as far as the Golden Slipper, where we can have a few dances and be home again at ten o'clock."

"I'm sorry, but not tonight," she said briefly, and ran upstairs. But once inside her door, Byrd felt a little regret that she hadn't accepted Martin's offer.

She hung her hat and coat on a hook behind the door, and took off her dress and slipped into a kimono. She stretched out on the bed, pling the pillows behind her head and took up her book.

She read the first page and then laid it back on the table listlessly.

"Nowhere to go but out; nowhere to stay but in," she said gloomily. "What a chump I was not to say I'd go and dance."

Suddenly she jumped out of bed. These evenings were getting on her nerves. She spent quite a little time over her toilet, having smeared her face and neck with cold cream and powdered and rouged it lightly.

She brushed her long, beautiful hair that looked like a golden stream of water under the light. She braided it and wound it coronet-fashion around her shapely head. She slipped into the blue-flowered organdy.

She waited a few minutes at the top of the stairs and as she saw Martin pass through the hall, she called to him softly.

"Oh, Mr. Kelly," her voice came gently down the stairs, "what would you say if I told you I had changed my mind?"

"I'd say 'hello!' and Martin was up the stairs, taking two steps at a time.

In a few minutes they were driving out toward Willoughby. The November wind, high and strong, as it blew across her face from the open window, had a tang of rain and winter and summer in it, but Martin did not mind.

Martin did his best to be entertaining. But Byrd couldn't throw herself into a new mood. She wanted to do things, and the minute she was doing them they lost their zest. Her mind kept going over incidents of her married life, incidents that this drive recalled, parties and road races.

They took a small white table at the far end of the oval dancing floor and as Byrd looked around, she thought it was a lovely place in which to dance. The little pink lamps threw a rosy mist over the polished floor, making it look like a rosy lake, and in it were reflected the trellises that covered the ceiling and walls and the profusion of flowers that twined around them.

The warm, bright room was only partly filled, for this was late in the season.

The jazz band, on its little platform, began to wail its syncopated rhythms.

The Theater

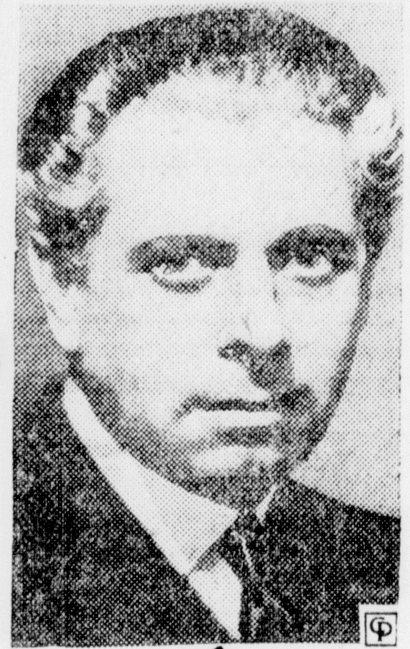

"The picture may be a flop." This is Max Reinhardt, the wonderful, the miracle maker, talking about the picture he has come here from Germany to produce with Lillian Gish as the star.

Reinhardt, master of pageantry, stage miracles, spectacles of huge dimensions, producer of a thousand plays, plans no particular pageantry, no huge spectacles, for the movie which will be paid a fabulous sum to produce and which he says may be a flop.

Hugo Von Hofmannsthal, German poet and writer of opera texts, spent some time in Italy preparing the Gish scenario. But Reinhardt says he proposed to employ none of the spectacular methods that have made him famous. Simplicity, sincere story, natural acting—there—in lies act. Why tracks? he asks. He speaks of the inadvisability of film players are indebted to him for the charm and grace they show on the screen, because of his style of advice. Maybe he designed that trick collar for Miss Garbo—who knows? The collar, be it known, was especially designed to hide a long and unpleasant appearing neck that that famous "it" exponent was afflicted with.

Lon Chaney's current cinema, "West of Zanzibar," which was shown at the Bijou last week, is being hailed in many quarters as his best effort since "The Unholy Three." New York critics have been high in their praise of the picture. Chaney himself is a shy character, not giving to talking about himself. He likes to hunt alone and to do just what he is doing—act.

MAX REINHARDT

ramping actors with rules. "Their interest and love for the work are the best method," he said. Reinhardt says he will try the movies this once. "There is nothing I have not done from circus to the most morbid drama or most delicate love story. Films are as interesting or as artistic as the actors therein and the story which they portray. Spoken plays are different. For language has no limitations. In working with the actors I make them feel, sense, the truth of the story unfolding, thereby bringing it out without words."

Reinhardt rules out talking pictures. Sound, he says has a minor place in the movie. And perhaps his Gish movie will be a flop.

TREES

I THINK I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.
A tree whose hungry mouth is pressed Against the earth's sweet flowing breast;
A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts her leafy arms to pray;
A tree that may in summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair;
Upon whose bosom snow has lain;
Who intimately lives with rain.
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.

The Theater

"The picture may be a flop," This is Max Reinhardt, the wonderful, the miracle maker, talking about the picture he has come here from Germany to produce with Lillian Gish as the star.

Reinhardt, master of pageantry, film players are indebted to him for the charm and grace they show on the screen, because of his style and plays, plans no particular pageantry, no huge spectacles, for the movie which will be paid a fabulous sum to produce and which he says may be a flop.

Hugo Von Hofmannsthal, German poet and writer of opera texts, spent some time in Italy preparing the Gish scenario. But Reinhardt says he proposed to employ none of the spectacular methods that have made him famous. Simplicity, sincere story, natural acting—there—in lies act. Why tracks?, he asks. He speaks of the inadvisability of ramping actors with rules. "Their interest and love for the work are the best method," he said. Reinhardt says he will try the movies this once. "There is nothing I have not done from circus to the most morbid drama or most delicate love story. Films are as interesting or as artistic as the actors themselves and the story which they portray. Spoken plays are different. For language has no limitations. In working with the actors I make them feel, sense, the truth of the story unfolding, thereby bringing it out without words."

Reinhardt rules out talking pictures. Sound, he says has a minor place in the movie. And perhaps his Gish movie will be a flop.

TREES

I THINK I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.

A tree whose hungry mouth is
pressed Against the earth's sweet flowing
breast;

A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts her leafy arms to pray;

A tree that may in summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair;

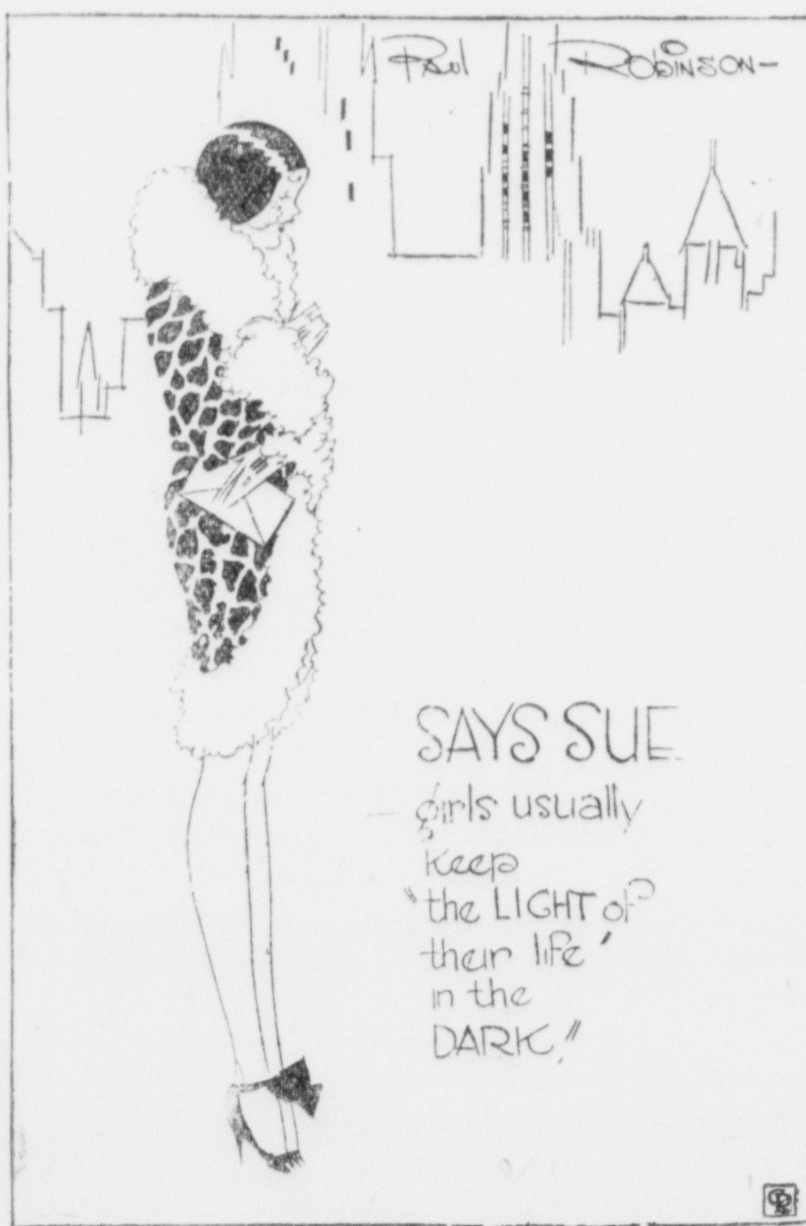

Upon whose bosom snow has lain;
Who intimately lives with rain.

Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.

COMMISSIONER MAY CUT MAYOR'S SALARY; ORDINANCE OFFERED

A little question of what remuneration Mayor-elect Karl R. Babb shall receive during his tenure of office gave the City Commission its second lively session in two days at a special meeting Saturday afternoon.

Commissioners E. E. Lighthizer and Jacob Kany attempted unsuccessfully to settle the salary question before the commission decided upon a successor to John W. Prugh, resigned, as mayor of the city.

It was pointed out that if the salary question was settled first and the mayor chosen afterward, the future mayor would have an opportunity beforehand in helping to fix his own salary, whereas if this procedure was reversed, a reduction of the present salary would have to be brought about by a favorable vote on the part of three of the five commissioners, exclusive of the commissioner who was appointed mayor. The mayor-elect would have no place in the discussion.

Nevertheless, Commissioner Lighthizer, carrying out what he declared was his campaign pledge to save the taxpayer's dollar whenever possible, introduced a resolution to suspend the rules and pass an emergency ordinance, effective immediately, fixing the mayor's salary at $650 per year, a slice of $1,000 from the salary received by Mayor Prugh.

The motion to suspend the rules lost out by a vote of 3 to 2. Commissioners McKay, Babb and Cherry voted against suspension of the rules, and Commissioners Kany and Lighthizer voted favorably on the motion.

Commissioner Kany then made a motion that the salary of the mayor be fixed at $1,000 instead of $650, which would still be a decrease of $650 from the present figure. This motion failed to receive a second.

After his motion lost, Commissioner Kany recalled the fact he was one of the members of the charter commission and assisted in framing the present city charter. He asserted that the charter members at that time tried to make the charter provisions as economical for the city as possible and that the salary of the judge of the old municipal court had consequently been fixed at $400, which was deemed reasonable compensation for the duties imposed on the judge.

"But," continued the commissioner, "if you want the mayor to make a living out of the job he should receive a better salary than Mayor Prugh obtained. A salary of $1,650 per year would not be sufficient. I think that a salary of $1,000 is fair. We do not want to be cheap and we do not want anyone to work for nothing."

The amendment was then placed on its first reading and it was agreed that the salary problem will again be thrashed out at the next regular commission meeting Thursday night. Meanwhile as no amendment to the salary ordinance has been passed, Mayor Babb's salary will be at the rate of $1,650 per year until such a time as it is changed.

Proceeding to the election of a mayor, which was the main business of the session, commissioners smoothed over their difficulties and unanimously elected Babb. Commissioner Lighthizer placed his name in nomination. Commissioner Cherry seconded the nomination and not a dissenting vote was cast. Babb declining to vote for himself.

In a speech thanking the commission for the honor bestowed upon him, Mayor Babb stated his views on the question of a suitable salary for the position. He declared that inasmuch as he could not possibly give the position the attention that Mayor Prugh did because of his business connections, he would be willing to accept and suggested a cut in salary of $1,350, which would make the figure $1,350. This proposal was left for future consideration.

Mayor-elect Babb is serving his first elective term of four years as a commissioner. His term expires December 31, 1929. He is a well-known Xenia hardware merchant, served as president of the Kiwanis club two years ago and at one time was president of the Social Service League for three consecutive years.

D. V. Cherry, new city commissioner, is a prominent local furniture dealer, is president of the Xenia Rotary Club, a member of the Masonic Lodge and an active member of the Xenia Retail Merchants' Association.

Lively interest in plans for celebrating his 81st birthday on Jan. 31 is being shown by Nathan Strauss, philanthropist. For on that day his gift of a Health and Welfare Centre is to be turned over to the holy city of Jerusalem. Dr. John Haynes Holmes will officiate at its dedication.

Gallagher drug store, 33 E. Main St., Xenia, is the recipient of many happy testimonials as to the quick and complete effectiveness of this wonder-working remedy.

"It is too good to be true," joyously exclaimed Mr. W. C. Early, 7 E. D. No. 7, Trebein, near Xenia a few days ago. "For several years, my stomach caused me intense pains. There were many foods I could not eat at all, and the few items left caused bloating, gas, and shortness of breath. Physicians failed to give relief. I tried no end of medicine but without help, and I was discouraged.

"When I heard of Konjola—although the reports of its success were glowing—I was dubious. I kept on suffering, and finally made up my mind to see if there was any virtue in the new medicine. The result was as delightful as surprising. With the very first bottle, my appetite returned, my stomach resumed its natural activities, bloating and gas disappeared, and I was able to sleep all through the night, something I had not been able to do for months.

"I have gone on with the treatment, and have now taken three bottles of this amazing compound. The result is that I am enjoying health I have not known for years. Truly Konjola has been a life-saver for me, and I recommend it to all who suffer as I did through hopeless months."

What Konjola did for Mr. Early, it has done for countless others, and you, too, will find relief from suffering, no matter of what duration, if you will just give Konjola the opportunity to restore the afflicted organs to cleanse your system of the poisons that are bringing misery. The new medicine contains no heart-depressing drugs; no ingredients that give momentary relief by deadening the nerves. Konjola reaches the very source of the ailment; its action is quick and permanent. You owe it to yourself to learn all about Konjola now—today. You need not suffer.
